MERGER IS COMPLETED

I.C.&S. LEASED BY HOLDING COMPANY

New Corporation Secures Control of Interurban Line and Several Light and Power Plants.

NEGOTIATIONS KEPT SECRET

Reported That Property of Seymour
Public Service Company is Part of the Transaction.

A big traction and public utilities deal involving over four millions of dollars has been consummated by which a new corporation known as the Interstate Public Service Company secures control of the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company, the street railway company at Columbus and the lighting plants at Seymour, Franklin, Columbus, Greenwood and Bloomington. The information was given out late Wednesday night and it is reported that the deal was made through Samuel Insull, president of the Louisville & Northern Railway and Lighting Co., which operates an interurban line from Sellersburg to Louisville. The greatest secrecy has been maintained in completing the negotiations, which it is said have been under consideration for some time and practically nothing was known of the proposed deal until Monday night, although it is said that the terms were agreed upon about two weeks ago.

According to the information received, Mr. Insull did not make the deal for himself or his road but for a holding company, which it is said will be incorporated at Indianapolis today under the name of the Interstate Public Service Company. It is further stated that this corporation is only a part of a larger concern which will secure control in the near future of a number of other traction lines and utility companies in the Middle West states.

The Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company which was leased for a term of 999 years was the largest item of the transaction. The deal was made on a basis of three million dollars and of this amount a considerable portion was paid for the leasing privilege, although exact figures were not given out to the public. The traction company, of which Will G. Irwin is president, is incorporated at the present time for $920,000 but it is said that this capital stock will be increased to $1,840,000. By the terms of the lease the holding company will pay as a rental 5 per cent. on the new capital stock, amounting to $92,000 a year. This sum will be above all taxes including income or any other future taxes which may be assessed.

The I. C. & S. Traction line is regarded as one of the best interurban properties in the state of Indiana and for several years has enjoyed a heavy freight and passenger traffic. It was over this road that the first electric interurban car was ever run into Indianapolis.

The road was first started in 1894 by Greenwood & Indianapolis capital, but after some grading had been done and a number of bridges were completed the project was abandoned. Later, however, the late Joseph I. Irwin and his son, Will G. Irwin, the present president of the road, purchased the franchise and right of way and completed the line from Indianapolis to Greenwood. Later the road was extended to Franklin and from that city it was built to Columbus and later to Seymour. The road is fifty-eight miles in length and runs through some of the best country in Indiana.

General manager, John E. Greeley of the Indianapolis & Louisville Traction Railway line, told a representative of the Republican over long distance telephone this morning that there were no negotiations pending regarding his road and that the present owners intend to keep control of it. However, it is understood that while the I. & L. may not be involved in the big deal at this time, it is the intention of the Interstate Public Service Company to get control of the I. & L. and also of the Louisville & Northern Railway & Lighting Company property later in order that the road may be operated from Indianapolis to Louisville under one management.

The Louisville & Northern Railway & Lighting Company, of which Mr. Insull is president, was incorporated under the laws of Indiana in 1905. This company owns all the capital stock of the United Gas & Electric Company with offices at New Albany and also of the New Albany Water Works Company. The electric line operated by it is ten miles long.

The line of the Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Traction Company extends from this city to Sellersburg, a distance of forty-one miles.

It is understood that the new holding company will take possession of the properties under the present arrangement Saturday night, but that there will be no change in the operating organization of the I. C. & S. and that all the present employees will be retained. Alexander Shane will continue as general manager, in the twelve years that this road has been operated it has a record of having never killed a passenger or broken a bone of any passenger riding upon its cars.

According to the reports received here this morning from Indianapolis and Columbus, the property of the Seymour Public Service Company was included in the deal but no particulars were given out by anyone directly interested in the transaction. The reports, however, are regarded as authentic and there seems to be no doubt that the owners of the local plant are considering the sale of the property here. The report, however, could not be verified in Seymour today.

The holding company also takes over the lighting plant and the street car line owned by the Central Indiana Lighting Company at Columbus, but like the deal here no particulars were given out today. The manager of that concern said that he knew

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT
SENDS MODIFYING ORDER

Patrons of Local Office May Have Access to Lock Boxes on Sunday as Usual.

Postmaster E. A. Remy has received from the post office department at Washington a modifying order relative to the Sunday closing instructions which were issued a short time ago. Under the first order postmasters were instructed to close the offices on Sunday and to deliver no mail either through the clerk's window or by the lock boxes.

The second order is practically the same as the first, although it provides that newspapers and hotels may receive their mail from the lock boxes the same as usual and that other patrons may have access to the lock boxes on Sunday. Although it is ordered that no mail be distributed if received after midnight Saturday, the local office will remain open the same on Sunday mornings but will probably close a little earlier than usual. The purpose of the closing order is to lighten the work of the post office clerks and to give them as much of a holiday as possible on Sunday.

TRUSTEES READY FOR SCHOOL YEAR

Opening Dates Decided Upon and Teachers for Several Townships
Are Announced.

CONSOLIDATION IS FAVORED

County Superintendent and Trustees in Meeting Decide to Hold Contests for Display of Work.

The township trustees are making arrangements for the opening of the district schools and at a meeting held with county superintendent, J. E. Payne, the dates for beginning the various schools were determined. The schools in Carr and Driftwood Townships will start on Sept. 9, Owen, Hamilton, Redding, Jackson, Washington, Brownstown and Grassy Fork schools will open on Sept. 23 and the schools in Salt Creek and Vernon Townships will start on Sept. 30. Brownstown and Seymour schools will open Monday and the schools at Crothersville will begin Sept. 30.

A number of other questions relative to the schools were discussed at the meeting and the trustees seem to be strongly in favor of consolidation. It was also decided to hold contests this year for general display of school work.

The teachers for practically all of the schools in the county have been selected but the trustees of several townships are not ready to give out the complete list at this time as some of the applications were on examination and their papers will not be graded for several days. The list of teachers as given out by the township trustees are as follows:

DIVORCES STILL HOLD FIRST PLACE

Seven Additional Cases Have Been Filed With the Clerk of the Jackson Circuit Court.

DAMAGE SUIT ON THE DOCKET

Ruby Judd by Next Friend Alleges
She Was Carried Beyond Destination on B. & O. S-W.

Several new cases have been filed with County Clerk Willard Stout and some of them will probably be tried at the next term of court. The divorces which have been unusually plentiful for several terms are still keeping up their records so far as numbers are concerned, as seven additional divorce complaints have been filed.

Ruby Judd by George Judd, her next friend, has filed suit against the B. & O. S-W., for $500 damages. The complaint avers that the plaintiff, Ruby Judd, is a girl twelve years of age and that on July 1, 1912 she purchased a ticket from Seymour to Fleming. She boarded the train in this city but alleges that it did not stop at Fleming and that she was carried to Hayden, six miles beyond her destination. It is further averred that she was put off the car among strangers and that she was compelled to remain over night at Hayden until 10 o'clock the next morning before she could get a train back home. The complaint further states that as a result both the plaintiff and her parents were greatly distressed and asks for damages in the sum above stated.

Other cases filed are as follows:

The Hudepohl Brewing Co. vs. Geo. Himler, et al; to quiet title to real estate.

Miller Oil and Supply Co. vs. Edmond Robertson, et al; appeal from Justice of the Peace.

Mary L. Pollard vs. Chas. E. Pollard; divorce.

George S. Schultheis vs. Amanda Schultheis; divorce.

Frank Browning, administrator of the estate of John McNiece vs. Ben P. McNeice; intermeddling.

Albert Phlegley vs. Ella D. Phlegley; divorce.

Joshua Stone vs. Rebecca Stone; divorce.

John Gallimore vs. Sarah Gallimore; divorce.

Chas. H. Nicholson vs. James H. Hollen; to quiet title.

Knowles D. Mann vs. David J. Miller, on note; appeal from Justice of the Peace.

Clarence Hubbard vs. Edna I. Hubbard; divorce.

TWO HEAT RECORDS WERE SMASHED THIS AFTERNOON

Mercury Climbs Up to 98 Degrees--
Highest Temperature Recorded
This Summer.

This has been a week of heat records. Almost every day a new record has been established for September heat for Seymour and today keeps in line. A double record was made this afternoon, however, by the thermometer reaching 98 degrees which is the hottest day ever recorded in September and also the highest point the mercury has reached this summer.

The sun has been burning hot all day and people who are employed in the sun say that it is almost impossible to work steady without being overcome by the heat. There has been a good breeze most of the day and this furnished some relief from the bright sun.

There is not much relief from the heat in sight as the weather report from the Indiana station today predicts fair and warmer weather for Friday. It is said that this is the hottest weather ever recorded in southern Indiana during the month of September.

DANIEL C. WARD IS VICTIM OF FEVER

Superintendent of I. & L. T. Ry Co.
Died This Morning After a Month's Illness of Typhoid.

WELL KNOWN TRACTION MAN

Was Connected With Road Since
Company Was Organized—Popular
Among Employees.

Daniel C. Ward, superintendent of the Indianapolis and Louisville Traction Railway Company and well known in the middle West among interurban men, died at 6:30 o'clock this morning at his home in Scottsburg after an illness of over a month with typhoid fever. He had been connected with the I. & L. Company from the time of its organization and by hard work and ability was promoted from time to time until he was finally put in charge of the superintendent's office which position he held for several years.

Mr. Ward was born at Lincoln, Indiana, forty years ago and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ward. Early in life he became interested in the railroad and traction business and for a number of years was employed, on the Indianapolis and Cincinnati line with headquarters at Rushville. It was while employed upon this line that his work came to the attention of the promoters of the I. & L. road and when the company was organized and the right of way purchased he had much to do with the building of the road. After the road was completed and the regular passenger and freight service was started, Mr. Ward was appointed trainmaster and served in that capacity for sometime. By hard labor with a high degree of efficiency he was later promoted to the position of superintendent which

CAR WRECKED AND TWELVE INJURED

Interurban Runs Into Open Switch
at Rushville and Plows Through a Bank of Mud.

CARRIED HUNDRED PASSENGER

Air Brakes Failed to Work and Motorman Was Unable to Stop Car
Until it Was Derailed.

Indianapolis, Sept. 5.—Twelve persons were injured shortly before midnight, when an outbound interurban car on the Rushville division of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company, struck an open switch at Keystone avenue and Prospect street, jumped the track, and plowed into a bank of mud. The car had nearly a hundred passengers and was prevented from turning over by a telephone pole. James E. Watson, of Rushville, and other passengers prevented a panic on the car and assisted women and children to safety.

The car was in the charge of Samuel Wafuel, of Rushville, motorman, and Ellis Henry, of Rushville, conductor. About one hundred feet east of Keystone avenue in Prospect street is a loop, where the city street cars turn to return to the city. Wafuel said that he approached the switch and intended to stop as usual when the brakes failed to work. The weight of the car carried it part way around the loop, and then the front trucks left the tracks. Wafuel stuck to his post and endeavored to stop the car. Henry was unable to tell anything about the accident.

Wafuel said that as he approached the switch he saw that it was thrown so that the car would enter the loop. Arthur Willsey, of Wanamaker, said the car approached the switch at a speed of about twenty miles an hour, and that Wafuel did not pay any attention to his signal to stop at Keystone avenue. Willsey said that he was waiting for the car at the corner, and that Wafuel was talking to several passengers who were crowded about him. Hoke said that he was standing near the motorman and that a number of men were talking about the state fair, but that Wafuel was making every effort to stop the interurban.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE PRODIGAL'S RETURN.

Thinly clad and hungry, the prodigal emerged from the door of a box car.

The village was his own town, whence without warning he had gone away a year previous. The wanderlust had overcome him. Headstrong, impetuous, obsessed with the desire to see strange sights, he ran away from home. In the far country where he had gone he began to be in great want.

Sometimes he worked as a waiter in a cheap restaurant; sometimes he spent his nights in the pool rooms. He earned but little money and spent it.

Finally he came to himself. He had gone to the verge of vagabondage. His appearance was against him. He looked—and felt—like a tramp. Lonesome, miserable, homesick, he said, "I will arise and go to my mother's house." The truant's father was dead.

It was an hour before the dawn. The ground was thinly covered with snow, which chilled his feet through the worn soles of his poor shoes. Shivering, he approached his mother's cottage on the outskirts of the town.

What would mother say? He had written but once. Maybe mother was dead? Anxiety almost overcame him. In a rush of emotion shame, remorse and humiliation possessed him. How forgetful he had been!

Tears filled his eyes as he noted the smoke from the kitchen flue. Doubtless mother was there or she was dead! He opened the kitchen door, fearful, hoping, yet dreading what might be. And there was mother! Her arms were outstretched to him, and she was smiling through her tears.

"My boy!" There was no fatted calf or feasting, yet the prodigal, sitting at the kitchen table opposite mother, with the hot cakes and coffee, had the greatest banquet of his life.

Her boy! You will never get down so low that mother will not welcome you. Father may disown you and spurn you from the door, but mother—never! Remorseful because of his cruel forgetfulness, his wanderings over, the prodigal had learned his lesson—At mother's expense!

Republican Convention.

The Republican county convention will be held in Seymour on Tuesday, September 10, 1912, and will be called to order at 1 p. m. The delegates to the county convention will be chosen by the Republicans in the several townships on Saturday, September 7. Each township will be entitled to one delegate and one alternate delegate for every twenty votes cast for Otis Gulley in 1910. The Republicans of each township are called to meet in mass convention at time and place designated below to select their delegates.

Brownstown township—Place of meeting, Brownstown, time 1:30 p. m.; delegates 9; alternates 9.

Carr township—Place of meeting, Medora; time 1:30 p. m.; delegates 6; alternates 6.

Grassy Fork township—Place of meeting, Tampico; time 1:30 p. m.; delegates 4; alternates 4.

Hamilton township—Place of meeting, Cortland; time 1:30 p. m.; delegates 6; alternates 6.

Jackson township—Place of meeting, Seymour; time 7:30 p. m.; delegates 37; alternates 37.

Owen township—Place of meeting, Clearspring; time 1:30 p. m.; delegates 5; alternates 5.

Redding township—Place of meeting, Walnut Grove; time 1:30 p. m.; delegates 4; alternates 4.

Salt Creek township—Place of meeting, Houston; time 1:30 p. m.; delegates 4; alternates 4.

Vernon township—Place of meeting, Crothersville; time 1:30 p. m.; delegates 10; alternates 10.

Washington township—Place of meeting, Dudletown; time 1:30 p. m.; delegates 3; alternates 3.

Total number of delegates to be chosen 94; alternates 94.

The Republicans are all urged to attend both the township convention on Saturday, September 7, and the county convention on Monday, September 10. A good speaker, probably one of the candidates on the state ticket, will address the county convention.

GEORGE PETER,
County Chairman.

An article that has real merit should in time become popular. That such is the case with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been attested by many dealers. Here is one of them. H. W. Hendrickson, Ohio Falls, Ind., writes, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best for coughs, colds and croup, and is my best seller." For sale by all dealers.

Tragedy at Polling Place.

New Orleans, Sept. 4.—Blood was shed at yesterday's municipal election. Adolphe Bones and Paul Rivaude, election commissioners for the good government and regular faction, were taken to a hospital in a dying condition as the result of a fight. H. A. Pettighill, employed by the city, fired the shots. The trouble occurred at a polling place in the Fifth ward.

The implicit confidence that many people have in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is founded on their experience in the use of that remedy and their knowledge of the many remarkable cures of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery that it has effected. For sale by all dealers.

A "Want Ad." in the Republican is a "Want Ad." in the Home.

AEROPLANE GUNS.

The experiments by Captain Lewis of the United States army, and the more recent tests of the British army at Farborough show that machine guns can be fired from flying aeroplanes with a greater degree of accuracy than has yet been attained at shooting along the ground. A target was struck at almost the rate of nine times out of ten, which means that very little ammunition was wasted. The accuracy of plunging fire is notable in military annals. At Sedan the encompassing cannon of the Germans planted on elevations compelled Louis Napoleon's capitulation under threat of annihilation. In the Russian-Japanese war Port Arthur was doomed when the Japanese poured into the city their galling fire from the great heights above. The fact that the Japanese worked long to gain those elevations again proved the recognized value of plunging fire. The war in Tripoli has shown that great damage can be done by mere bombs dropped from directly overhead. This being demonstrated, the military authorities of Europe are now using machine guns. These can be aimed and fired more accurately than anything that is dropped. There is less waste of ammunition and more ammunition can be carried. The experiments combine to make a powerful argument for peace.

That the modern desire is universal among men of deeds to make use of the pen has been demonstrated once more by the volume published by the heir to the German throne, entitled "From My Hunting Diary," who like his illustrious father, is seeking literary expression, and whose book is well written and quite readable. In some periods of history the ability to perform deeds generally was regarded as absolutely exclusive of the ability to portray them by rehearsal, says the Washington Herald. Narrative skill in medieval times of romance even was considered unmanly. Only troubadours, or court jesters, were tellers of tales and singers of songs, knights and squires devoting themselves to the more serious, at least more concrete, business of love or war. But in all periods of creative eras in history the desire for literary expression has gone hand in hand with action, one supplementing the other. And today, in what is the greatest of all creative periods, one of its most remarkable phases is the vast output of the written word. A universal consciousness is, alert to hear and, to tell. As never before the doers of deeds also are the narrators of them.

Oil on the roads is a blessing in that it lays the dust, but it has its drawbacks. Residents of Montclair, N. J., and surrounding towns say that robins, bluebirds, starlings and even the hardy sparrows are dying at an unprecedented rate this summer, and the mortality is attributed to thirst, occasioned by the aversion of the birds to drinking water tainted by the oil used on the roads. Perhaps the situation can be redeemed by a system of drinking-troughs for the feathered tribes.

Prof. Smith of the University of Minneapolis says there ought to be a law to prevent feeble-minded women from marrying. Why women? Will the feeble-minded men be retained to pass on the question whether the feminine aspirants are feeble-minded or not?

Why is it that when a man sees a legend reading "Paint," he always insists on investigating and getting his fingers mused? Possibly for the same reason that he always tries to pull open a door when the sign says, "Push."

Philadelphia now has a manicuring establishment in its zoo, and the lady in the barber shop continues to capture fierce but unconfined animals.

It is alleged that a catfish 131 years old was caught in the Mississippi river a few days ago. The catfish has not denied the impeachment.

Home Course In Road Making

VII.—Highway Culverts and Bridges.

By LOGAN WALLER PAGE,
Director Office of Public Roads,
United States Department of Agriculture

Copyright by American Press Association, 1912.

CULVERTS and bridges are constructed for a twofold purpose. In the first place, they are required to provide the necessary drainage for the road and, in the second place, to furnish a suitable crossing for traffic over waterways. A large percentage of the highway culverts and bridges in this country were built of wood in the first instance, and in later years many of the smaller culverts have been rebuilt with some kind of pipe, either of terra cotta, cast iron or more recently of corrugated metal. It is impracticable in a short paper to discuss the various forms of pipe culverts. They are purchased in the open market, and the road official uses his judgment about the size of pipe that should be laid to serve the requirements of the location in question.

The following principles should, however, be borne in mind: All pipe culverts should be laid deep enough so that the pipe will not be injured by the traffic passing over it, and head walls should in all cases be built at each end of the culverts to prevent them from being washed out. The maximum fill to be allowed over a clay pipe culvert should be at least three feet. The objection to pipe culverts is that they become easily clogged and are thus made useless. Clay pipe culverts are easily broken unless they are well laid and well protected.

The most simple and natural form of bridge consists of timbers laid across the stream or opening which is to be passed over and covered with planks to form the roadway. Walls should be built to support each end of the timbers, and these are called abutments. The width of the opening which they cross is termed the span. The timbers themselves are called stringers, and the planks are usually referred to as the flooring.

The size of the stringers required increases with the span and the distance apart, center to center, that they are laid. For example, a 2 inch by 6 inch stringer will do for a two foot span, while a 6 inch by 10 inch or 6 inch by 12 inch stringer is required for a twenty foot span. The distance apart that the stringers are required to be laid varies with the thickness of the plank flooring and the amount of traffic.

The weight of the materials in the bridge is commonly referred to as the dead load. The additional load which the bridge is designed to carry is known as the live load and consists of animals, wagons or motor vehicles or pedestrians. A crowd of people standing close together on a bridge is usually estimated at about 100 pounds per square foot of floor space.

The strength of the bridge depends upon the kind of timber used, the dimensions of the timber, the amount used and its location, and also very largely upon the span of the bridge. For example, assuming a loaded wagon carrying 500 pounds per wheel, a yellow pine board one inch thick and eight inches wide would require stringers to support it about every thirteen inches apart to carry the load safely, while a plank of the same width and two inches thick would require stringers three feet apart, and a three inch plank would require stringers about every four feet apart. These figures are based upon the assumption that yellow pine, Douglas fir or a good quality of oak would be used. If such timbers as white pine, hemlock or spruce are used, then stringers would be required about every eight inches for a one inch board, every two and one-half feet for a two inch plank and every three feet for a three inch plank.

The following table gives the approximate sizes of stringers required for the different spans:

Span in feet.	Size of yellow pine stringers in inches.	Size of white pine stringers in inches.	Span in feet.	Size of yellow pine stringers in inches.	Size of white pine stringers in inches.
2	2 x 6	2 x 6	9	3 x 6	4 x 8
4	2 x 6	2 x 6	12	4 x 8	6 x 10
5	3 x 6	4 x 8	14	4 x 8	6 x 10
6	3 x 6	4 x 8	16	4 x 10	6 x 12
7	3 x 6	4 x 8	18	4 x 10	6 x 12
8	3 x 6	4 x 8	20	4 x 10	6 x 12

In the above table round timbers or logs may be substituted for the stringers, in which case the diameter of the log should be about one and one-eighth times the largest dimension of the stringer as shown.

Fig. 2 illustrates two methods by which the simple beam or stringer may be strengthened and states the corresponding loads that will be carried safely. That is, the simple beam 12 inches by 12 inches square and 24 feet between points of support will carry safely a concentrated load of one and one-half tons at its center, while if the same beam be made into a King post beam by passing underneath the beam a one inch steel rod, which is made fast at either end of the beam, and inserting a single post under the load at the center of the beam, then such a beam will carry about two and three-quarter times as much, or a load of three and three-quarter tons, safely, while if the same beam be built into a King truss beam the load concentrated at the center may then be increased to nine tons.

The best culverts and smaller bridges are built of re-enforced concrete. The cost is greater than for wooden or pipe constructions in the first instance, but if well built there should be no further cost for repairs. That is, the first cost is the last cost, while durability and safety are secured from the outset.

Good materials, consisting of crushed stone or gravel, sand and portland cement and water, are required for concrete. Deformed steel rods imbedded in the concrete are used for strengthening the cover spans. The mixing of these materials into concrete and placing it in the forms are extremely simple matters after they are once well understood, but nevertheless should not be undertaken by one who is unfamiliar with the use of concrete.

There are three general kinds of concrete culverts, which are known as the concrete box type. They are built for the smaller sizes up to such as have an opening about four feet by six feet wide. For sizes above that the floor is usually left out where it is not needed to protect the foundation, or paving may be substituted for it. The floor and side walls are constructed of concrete with or without metal re-enforcement, usually without such re-enforcements. The proportions of concrete used for the floor and side walls are usually, 1, 3, 6—that is, one part by measure of portland cement, three parts by measure of sand and six parts by measure of crushed stone or gravel. For spans above ten or twelve feet the cover needs to be strengthened with concrete beams. This type is known as the concrete T beam from its resemblance to the capital letter. They are placed adjacent to each other, the distance from center to center depending upon the load which the bridge is expected to carry.

The best type of concrete culverts for spans from ten feet up to thirty feet is the steel I beam incased in concrete, as shown in Fig. 1. Here the concrete floor is designed to carry the load across the span from one I beam to another, while the steel I beams carry the load from one abutment to the other. It often happens that the culverts are built on yielding foundations and that the abutments sometimes settle causing cracks that would be dangerous in some types of culverts, but it is the ability of the steel I beam type to withstand such conditions as these just mentioned that makes it the best type to build. The I beams are incased in concrete to protect them from rusting. Sometimes they are simply painted or more often not painted at all, and what would be a permanent bridge is allowed to rust out for lack of proper care.

For details in regard to the methods of designing and building concrete bridges attention is called to bulletin No. 39, "Highway Bridges and Culverts," issued by the office of public roads, United States department of agriculture.

No road can be called a good road that is dotted with broken, wornout and unsafe wooden culverts and bridges, such as are encountered on many of our highways at the present time. Such bridges are a menace to our traveling public and are expensive to maintain. The price of timber is advancing, and the increasing traffic demands safer bridges and culverts. Re-enforced concrete for this class of work appears to form the best solution of this problem. Bridge construction is eminently the work for the engineer, and his services should in all cases be secured.

The Road Contract System.

There are three systems of road maintenance in use in this country, viz, the contract system, the labor tax or personal service system, and the system which provides men permanently employed to look after particular sections of road. The contract system has been used to some extent in various states, but it has never been found entirely satisfactory. As a general rule, the amount paid for this work is small, and such poor service is rendered that in many cases the roads have become worse rather than better.

LIQUOR REVENUE OF CHICAGO

Approximately $67,000,000 Would Be Taken in Every Year if Each Saloon Received $30 Daily.

The Chicago Record-Herald makes the following estimate: If the 7,000 saloons of Chicago take in $30 each day, the total amount for all would be approximately $67,000,000 a year. Apply this in legitimate channels of trade and you will have this result:

Employ 10,000 men cleaning streets and doing other public work at $1.50 a day; employ 2,000 teams and men cleaning alleys and streets at $4.00 a day; give each of 60,000 poor families $1.00 a day; buy a $25 suit for the father of each of these 60,000 families; buy one $10 dress and one $3 pair of shoes for the mother; buy two tons of hard coal and one barrel of flour for each poor family; buy one $20 suit and one $4 pair of shoes for $250,000 workmen, and pay the carfare and lunch of the same number; buy one $4 suit of clothes for every boy and girl in the public schools (180,891 enrolled); establish one free library and museum in each division of the city at $1,000,000 each; build 30 new schoolhouses at $100,000 each; build 36 churches at $50,000 each; give to fresh air fund for poor children $75,000; give to the various hospitals of the city $100,000; and have a balance left of over $10,000.

SOME MIGHTY POOR EXCUSES

Temperance Worker Meets With Many Peculiar Pretences in Seeking to Enlist Recruits.

"It's not my concern," "I'm not especially interested in the subject," are excuses which meet the temperance worker who endeavors to enlist recruits in the war against the liquor traffic. Do those who speak realize what a commentary they are making upon their patriotism? What reason can they give for failing to be concerned in an evil which is destroying young men by the thousand, wasting the substance of thousands more, and lowering the efficiency of a multitude of workers? How can they explain their lack of interest in a subject so vital to future generations? Were our nation at war with one of the world powers, who would dare to stand up before his fellows and admit that he was not interested in the outcome of the struggle? All the horrors of war sink into insignificance beside the tyrannies and atrocities for which the legalized liquor traffic is responsible.

VILLAGE EDITOR HAD ENOUGH

Country Journalist Makes Characteristic Reply of Thanks for Bottle of Whisky Sent to Him.

Here is a recent editorial notice in a village newspaper.

"A present in the shape of a bottle of fine old Scotch whisky was kindly sent to this office at 2 p. m. on Thursday. Ten minutes past that hour not a drop remained. At 2:30, three men were charged with being drunk and disorderly. The editor of this paper returns thanks for the gift and would feel obliged if the donor of the whisky would send along money enough to pay the fines, a policeman's helmet, a new office boy, four panes of glass, a new door knob, and—no more whisky!"

Total Abstinence and Sport.

Mr. J. C. Clegg, chairman of the English Football association, in the course of a health lecture at Sheffield showed that the best conditions of physical achievements and endurance were obtained under total abstinence. Two thousand years ago the youth of Greece entering the Olympic games were urged to abstain from wine. In his younger days, when he played football, and won about 120 prizes, including 80 firsts on the running track, fellow-competitors remarked to him that as he was an abstainer he had an advantage and ought to give them a start. Mr. Clegg attacked the system in vogue in England of putting footballers in public-houses, and he declared that if the men did not touch the drink, the hours spent in the air of a public-house put the men off form, and he gave instances of this having occurred.

Lines of Truth.

God's side is never the whisky side. Genius may be swift, but perseverance has the surest feet.

No man has a God-given right to do anything with his troubles except to give them to Christ.

The devil likes to pat the man on the head who expects to get to heaven on his own merits.

To Prohibit Theft.

The laws of the country prohibiting stealing do not entirely prevent stealing. Nevertheless, I am opposed to a high license system of stealing, provided that all theft shall be restricted to certain authorized thieves who shall steal only between the hours of 6 a. m. and 11:30 p. m., except Sunday, when no stealing shall be done except by stealthy entrance by the back door, and at the thief's risk. I believe in laws that absolutely forbid theft at any hour on any day of the week.—Bob Burdette.

STIFF FIGHT ON IN CONVENTION

New York Progressives Throw
Harmony Fat In Fire.

ROW OVER HEAD OF TICKET

Feud Between the Hotchkiss and the Prendergast Forces, Into Which Has Been Projected a Point of Religious Difference, May Lead to a Wrangle Which Will Necessitate the Shelving of Both Men.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The state Progressives have flung all of the harmony fat into the fire, and the leaders are now engaged in a real down-right old-fashioned scrimmage over candidates for governor. The first session of the convention to nominate a complete state ticket and electors was called to order in the arena at 11 o'clock this morning.

After the speech of Temporary Chairman Davyport, former Representative W. Bourke Cochran delivered an address and the convention adjourned until tomorrow, when Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California, the Progressive candidate for vice president, is to deliver a speech to the convention. It may be possible to get to nominations Friday afternoon and evening, but there is a possibility of the convention lasting until Saturday. This delay, if it happens, will be due to wide-open discussions concerning the platform and the rumpus which has developed over the candidate for governor. Most of the criticism is directed against William H. Hotchkiss, chairman of the provisional state committee and slated to be chairman of the state committee.

All of this friction came out when it was learned that opposition had been developed to the nomination for governor of Comptroller William A. Prendergast, and that this antagonism was founded on religious lines because of Mr. Prendergast's conduct of the charity bureau in the New York city comptroller's office. It has been believed all along and it was announced at the Progressive national convention in Chicago, that all these differences had been healed to the satisfaction of the men and women of Mr. Prendergast's religious faith. But up pops the statement from well informed Progressive leaders that his nomination would be hazardous in view of an opposition over these charity matters which had not been smoothed out.

It is claimed here that the bringing up of this matter was inspired by Mr. Hotchkiss's friends with a view to "double crossing" Mr. Prendergast in the interest of Mr. Hotchkiss and that Mr. Hotchkiss is really a candidate for governor, although protesting at all hours of the day and night that he is not. Some are saying that Prendergast must not run because he is a Catholic, and the non-Catholics will oppose him. Then others are saying that he must not run because he is a Catholic and as comptroller he has been doing things that the Catholics haven't liked, and so they will oppose him.

Prendergast's friends are determined to prevent Hotchkiss's nomination if possible. Tim Woodruff is full of fight to get the nomination for Prendergast. Woodruff says that Prendergast was almost the first man in the field in New York and he does not think men who have been supporting him right along should turn against him now. Colonel Roosevelt has kept his hands thus far off from the deliberations of the convention, but all along he has been very friendly to the nomination of Mr. Prendergast.

It is stated that in the event of Mr. Hotchkiss's nomination for governor, Virgil K. Kellogg of Watertown will be made chairman of the state committee, which is to supersede the provisional state committee organized by Mr. Hotchkiss. But the turmoil of the day and the Vermont election has demonstrated that there is no dearth of candidates to come before this convention, and that it is to be a lively affair before conclusions are reached. The following is a list of candidates for governor: William H. Hotchkiss, New York; William A. Prendergast, New York; Charles C. Alden, Erie; Bainbridge Colby, New York; Prof. F. M. Davenport, Clinton.

SIGHT RESTORED BY PORTRAIT OF SAINT

Sixteen Years of Blindness
Relieved at Shrine.

Montreal, Sept. 4.—Mrs. J. Flannery, who, with her husband and young family, resides at 71 Convent street, St. Henry, told your correspondent how, after sixteen years of almost total blindness her sister, Miss Loretta McMahon of Thorold, Ont., was completely cured while on a pilgrimage to the sacred shrine of St. Anne De Beaupre. "My sister," Mrs. Flannery says, "made but one visit to the oratory. That was on Monday of last week. On Tuesday she decided to go to St. Anne De Beaupre."

"It was on Thursday morning, I understand, that her miraculous cure was effected. According to my sister's own story, she was kneeling before the blessed picture of St. Anne and fervently praying when suddenly her vision cleared and she could distinguish not only the picture in its entirety, but as well the faces of those around her."

"Rejoicing she rose to her feet and found that she could see as well as anyone in the church."

MONGOLS DEFEATED

Bloody Fighting Is Reported From Manchuria.

Pekin, Sept. 4.—Governor Chao Ershun of Manchuria telegraphs to the government that General Chang Cho Lin attacked a large force of Mongolians near Tonanfu, defeating them after a twelve hours' engagement. The Mongolians lost 1,000 killed and 700 taken prisoners. The Chinese captured five guns and much ammunition. Reinforcements are being hurried from the northern part of Chihli province to Mukden and Kirin.

Gave His Victims No Warning.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 4.—Following a "keg party" given by a number of men southeast of the city, a quarrel arose that resulted in the shooting of Al Bloomfield and Sam Crowley by a man whose only known name is Wilbur. Neither of the men is fatally hurt. Wilbur escaped. The shooting occurred several hours after the men had separated. Wilbur gave his victims no warning before firing on them.

Running up and down stairs, sweeping and bending over making beds will not make a woman healthy or beautiful. She must get out of doors, walk a mile or two every day and take Chamberlain's tonic to improve her digestion and regulate her bowels. For sale by all dealers.

Women Fail to Turn Out.

San Francisco, Sept. 4.—The vote in the presidential primary election in San Francisco was about 60 per cent of registration as against 80 per cent at the municipal primary a year ago. Only a small percentage of the 41,000 registered women appeared at the polls. Taft managers in San Francisco secured control of the county committee, which was the only important fight here.

THIS TRAIN ROBBER WANTED ONLY MONEY

Plucky Engineer Put a Stop to His Operations.

New Orleans, Sept. 5.—Last night a robber boarded the New York limited train on the Louisville & Nashville line, robbed the passengers and the mail, engaged in a desperate struggle with Engineer James Baer, was badly wounded and taken prisoner, and is in jail at Bay St. Louis, Miss. The train is a solid Pullman vestibuled train and carries no express car. There were seventy-five passengers aboard, mostly for eastern cities, including many for New York. The Pullman officials cautioned the passengers and many were able to hide their valuables. The man refused watches, saying he wanted money only. All the valuables were dropped into his grip and were found in it, together with dynamite, nitroglycerin and two revolvers, after the struggle with the engineer.

VARIOUS VIEWS OF THE RESULT

Vermont Election Stirs Washington Political Gossips.

PROGRESSIVE LEADERS ELATED

While They Have Little Hope That Roosevelt Will Be Elected, They Believe That If the Colonel Runs Second to Wilson It Will Put the Progressives in Line to Capture Republican Organization in Four Years.

Washington, Sept. 5.—The outcome of the elections in Vermont, where the Republican nominee for governor failed of election by the people, thus throwing the selection of a state executive on the legislature, has elated the Progressive leaders. The Progressives predict that Colonel Roosevelt will carry Vermont in November. Only a few of the Progressives, however, have any hope that Colonel Roosevelt will be elected president. They admit privately that they are in the field to defeat President Taft. They believe that if Colonel Roosevelt runs second to Governor Wilson, that the Progressives will capture the Republican organization four years hence.

Friends of President Taft in Washington are by no means discouraged over the outcome of the Vermont election. They declare that the result in Vermont will bring the Republicans to a realization that they must be up and doing throughout the entire campaign.

Progressives believe that the returns from Vermont will give an impetus to the Progressive cause. Senator Clapp of Minnesota, who stumped Vermont for the Progressive ticket, said:

"It means that Roosevelt is absolutely certain to carry Vermont in November. Under all the circumstances it was a great victory for the Progressive party, and it will be a source of much inspiration and encouragement to Progressives all over the country."

Senator Clapp was asked if he now thinks that Colonel Roosevelt will be elected. "Of course," said he, "with the south Democratic one would hesitate to make such a prediction. But who can tell? In a movement of this kind there is no way of fathoming the undercurrent."

Representative George W. Norris of Nebraska, who is the Republican nominee for United States senator in his state, said of the Vermont result: "It demonstrates absolutely that the fight is between Roosevelt and Wilson."

Senator Clapp, who is chairman of the special committee to conduct the inquiry into campaign contributions to the national Republican committee in 1904, will remain here about ten days laying the groundwork for the forthcoming inquiry. He expects to begin the investigation on Sept. 30, when it is expected that Colonel Roosevelt will appear to give his testimony. Senator Clapp said that the inquiry would be as thorough as possible. Mr. Clapp is in correspondence with many persons who are supposed to have knowledge of the facts.

"Everyone concerned seems anxious to appear," said the senator. "Accordingly I see no reason why anyone should be summoned."

THE COLONEL'S VIEW

Says the Fight Is Between the Progressives and the Democrats.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 5.—Colonel Roosevelt was enthusiastically received in Iowa. From 7 o'clock in the morning, when he spoke to 5,000 people at Keokuk, until 4 in the afternoon, when Des Moines, the capital, turned out as rarely in its history to greet him, Roosevelt's progress was triumphant in its character. The colonel plainly was delighted at the welcome extended to him. Upon his arrival here he was hurried to the Coliseum through streets lined with enthusiastic crowds. He arrived just as the convention was nominating former Judge John L. Stevens as Progressive candidate for governor.

When the colonel ascended the platform 8,000 throats opened and gave a rousing welcome to the Progressive presidential nominee. He told his audience they would find before election the old Republican party swept completely aside and the fight between the Progressives and the Democrats.

Progressives Sweep California.

San Francisco, Sept. 5.—Taft Republicans saved very little out of the wreck at Tuesday's presidential primaries. More than 80 out of 100 nominees for the state legislature are pledged to vote for Roosevelt electors in the legislative convention, which means that California's thirteen electoral votes will be cast for Roosevelt unless the men can devise some method of making the game.

They Saw Four Hundred Feet.

Budapest, Sept. 5.—During a squall at Oerany an airplane which was being held by 100 sailors, was carried off. Three of the men did not release their hold on the ship until it had risen to a height of 400 feet. Then they were unable to hold on any longer and let go. All three were killed instantly.

A BLACK HAND AGENT SEEKS JOHN D.'S MAN

Rockefeller Employe Repulses Caller With a Gun.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Sept. 5.—An employe of John D. Rockefeller's estate, Joseph Drago, proprietor of a fruit store in Courtland street, was approached by a member of the Black Hand and $500 was demanded from him. Drago refused to pay and a pistol duel took place in Fountain square. Drago shot the Black Hand agent in the leg and then ran away. The agent held the crowd at bay at the point of a revolver and made his escape along the railroad tracks. Drago was later captured by Policeman Cregier. Drago pulled his gun on the policeman, but he covered when the policeman pulled out his revolver. The Black Hand agent was then sought, but no trace of him could be found. Drago's wife runs his fruit store while he works on the Rockefeller estate. Drago would not tell the police anything except that the Black Hand wanted $500.

STREET BATTLE

Over Forty Shots Exchanged in a Genoan Fracas.

Genoa, Sept. 5.—An attempt to cheat a streetcar conductor here cost four lives. Three men left the car without having paid their fares. The conductor followed the men, who turned and, drawing revolvers, shot him dead. The police and a crowd of people pursued the murderers and over forty shots were exchanged. Two policemen and one of the robbers were shot dead and five other persons were wounded. The two fugitives were captured.

Two Drown While Bathing.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 5.—Marion Manich, eighteen year old, was drowned while bathing in the Little Calumet river. Thomas Pinok, thirty-five years old, of East Chicago, was drowned while bathing in the Grand Calumet river.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

VISITED TRAINING CAMP.

Misses Mary Mack, Hattie Roeger, Mary Lee and Helen Galbraith and their guests, Miss Margaret Coffey of Hope and Miss Elizabeth Butler of Memphis, Tenn., spent yesterday at the high school boys training camp at Rockford. Mrs. Sim Watkins chaperoned the party.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Miss Matilda Kessler entertained about thirty-five of her little friends this afternoon at her home on North Walnut street in honor of her seventh birthday. A number of games were played on the lawn and refreshments were served.

Township Call.

The republicans of Jackson township will meet at the city building at 7:30 p. m. Saturday, September 7, for the purpose of electing 37 delegates and 37 alternate delegates to the county convention.

J. H. Andrews, T. C.

Rumors of Big Traction Deal.

Indianapolis, Sept. 5.—It is understood in local financial circles that a deal is pending whereby the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction company will be leased to a Chicago syndicate which is said to have obtained a lease on the property for 199 years for a consideration of $3,000,000.

Saloons Forced Out of Business.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 5.—The saloons have closed in this city and will stay closed. Although the city voted "wet" two years ago, a remonstrance was filed against the saloons a few weeks ago and they were forced to go out of business.

nothing about the transaction, and while he was under the impression that a change was contemplated, he was not aware as to who would purchase it or when the sale would be made. It is not known what price was paid for this property. The plants at Greenwood, Franklin and Bloomington are also regarded as good investments and these have been taken over by the new company.

Mr. Insull, who is at the head of the Interstate Public Service Company, is well known in financial circles, and is president of the Commonwealth-Edison Company of Chicago, and is the controlling factor in all of the public utilities using electricity in Chicago and Northern Illinois. He is president of the Louisville and Northern Railway Lighting Company, which controls all of the public utilities in Jeffersonville and New Albany besides operating the line between Sellersburg and Louisville.

The holding company will have charge of all the public utilities between Indianapolis and Louisville with the exception of the I. & L. T. Ry. line, which furnishes the towns of Crothersville and Scottsburg with light. Much interest has been shown in the deal here today especially when it became known that the Seymour Public Service Company was interested in it. It is expected that further details of the big transaction, which by the way is the largest of its kind ever consummated in Indiana, will be made in a few days or just as soon as the holding company is organized at Indianapolis.

TO TEST CASE

Brewery Loses Half Carload of Beer by Confiscation.

Marion, Ind., Sept. 5.—In the Clover Leaf railway yards here half a carload of beer consigned to the local agent of the Terre Haute Brewing company was confiscated by the police and locked up. The beer was consigned to a number of Marion people, George Kocher, agent for the Terre Haute Brewing company, and G. W. McKown, agent of the Clover Leaf railway, protested against confiscating the beer under a search warrant, and will test the case of the police. While no charge has been filed against the brewing company the police say they will charge violation of the liquor laws, as those to whom the beer was consigned say they had given no orders to the brewing company.

Annual Meeting of D. A. R.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 5.—The annual state convention of the Indiana department of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be held here October 8, 9 and 10. Mrs. Matthew T. Scott of Washington, regent of the D. A. R. of the United States, will be the guest of honor at the convention, and will deliver an address. There will be 150 delegates from many different cities throughout the state.

Baby's Narrow Escape.

Warsaw, Ind., Sept. 5.—While running his car at the rate of fifty miles an hour, Lon Castle, motorman on the Winona interurban line, saw a speck on the track and by applying the emergency brake was able to stop his car just in time to avoid running over an eighteen-months-old baby, which was playing on the track. Its mother, Mrs. Frank Carter, witnessed the child's narrow escape.

John D. Rockefeller on Business Routine.

Have rules and routine disappeared from business life? There was a period when the time schedule ruled both young and old in shop and office; when the successful man of affairs rose at seven, breakfasted at eight, was at his office at nine, dictated letters until ten, and so on, until five or six o'clock daily throughout the year. Now the rules and routine have apparently gone.

It is true there are still some who hold fast to the gospel of details—and of these is Mr. John D. Rockefeller, who, writing in the September Strand, says:

"I confess that I attach great importance to routine. I believe that every young man who intends to succeed in business should do as I did—take a course at a commercial college. I do not believe in what is called 'the rule of thumb'; the rudiments of business should be properly taught, and the ground prepared to build upon. If a youth has had no thorough grounding, a time may come when his weakness for detail will show itself.

"When people write to me asking for the secret of my success, I always tell them that I owe everything to a love for, and mastery of, details. A man playing chess or billiards or golf must attend to details if he wants to win—why must he not do so in business? Everyone ought to be able to keep his own books and know exactly to a penny how the money comes in and how it goes out. I have known many bright, intelligent men who never really knew all the facts about their own affairs. They did not actually know when they were making money on a certain operation and when they were losing. Such business men live in a fool's paradise: they hate to study their books and face the truth. They are often brilliant at a single great stroke, but they cannot keep up the game, simply because they are weak in detail, and they are weak in detail because they have never studied its principles."

CHAPTER V.

Wherein Mrs. Comstock Laughs the First Time in Sixteen Years.

THE neighbor left, and Margaret packed her purchases into the big market basket. Wesley took the hat, umbrella and raincoat, and they went down to Mrs. Comstock's. As they reached the step Margaret spoke pleasantly to Mrs. Comstock, who sat reading just inside the door, but she did not answer.

Wesley Sinton opened the door and went in, followed by Margaret.

"Kate," he said, "you needn't take out your mad over our little racket on Maggie. I ain't told her a word I said to you or you said to me. She's not so very strong, and she's sewed since 4 o'clock this morning to get this dress ready for tomorrow. It's done and we came down to try it on Elnora."

"Is that the truth, Mag Sinton?" demanded Mrs. Comstock.

"You heard Wesley say so," proudly affirmed Mrs. Sinton.

"I want to make you a proposition," said Wesley. "Wait till Elnora comes. Then we'll show her the things and see what she says."

"How would it do to see what she says without bribing her?" sneered Mrs. Comstock.

"If she can stand what she did yesterday and will today she can bear most anything," said Wesley. "Put away the clothes if you want to till we tell her."

"Well, you don't take this waist I'm working on," said Margaret, "for I have to baste in the sleeves and set the collar. Put the rest out of sight if you like."

"Please hand me the empty bucket in the kitchen, mother," she said.

Mrs. Comstock picked up the basket and bundles, placed them inside her room and closed the door.

Margaret threaded her needle and began to sew. Mrs. Comstock returned to her book, while Wesley fidgeted and raged inwardly. He could see that Margaret was nervous and almost in tears, but the lines in Mrs. Comstock's impassive face were set and cold. So they sat and the clock ticked off the time—one hour, two, dusk, and no Elnora. Margaret long since had taken the last stitch she could. Occasionally she and Wesley exchanged a few words. Mrs. Comstock regularly turned a leaf and once arose and moved nearer a window. Just when Margaret and Wesley were discussing whether he had not best go to town to meet Elnora, they heard her coming up the walk. Wesley dropped his tilted chair and squared himself. Margaret gripped her sewing and turned pleading eyes to the door. Mrs. Comstock closed her book and grimly smiled.

"Mother, please open the door!" called Elnora.

Mrs. Comstock arose and swung open the screen. Elnora stepped in beside her, bent half double, the whole front of her dress gathered into a sort of bag filled with a heavy load and one arm stretched high with books. In the dim light she did not see the Sintons.

"Please hand me the empty bucket in the kitchen, mother," she said. "I just had to bring these arrow points home, but I'm scared for fear I've soiled my dress and will have to wash it. I'm to clean them and take them to the banker in the morning, and oh, mother, I've sold enough stuff to pay for my books, my tuition and maybe a dress and some lighter shoes besides. Oh, mother, I'm so happy! Take the books and bring the bucket!"

Then she saw Margaret and Wesley. "Oh, glory!" she exclaimed. "I was just wondering how I'd ever wait to tell you, and here you are! It's too perfectly splendid to be true!"

"Tell us, Elnora," said Sinton. "Well, sir," said Elnora, doubling down on the floor and spreading out her skirt, "set the bucket here, mother. These points are brittle and have to be put in one at a time. If they are chipped I can't sell them." And she told all that had happened.

Elnora laid the last arrow point in the pail and arose, shaking leaves and bits of baked earth from her dress. She reached into her pocket and produced her money and waved it before their wondering eyes.

"And that's the joy part!" she exclaimed. "Put it up in the clock till morning, mother. That pays for the books and tuition and"—Elnora hesitated, for she saw the nervous grasp with which her mother's fingers closed on the bills. Then she went on, but more slowly and thinking before she spoke.

"What I get tomorrow pays for more books and tuition, and maybe a few, just a few, things to wear. These shoes are so dreadfully heavy and hot, and they make such a noise on the floor. There isn't another calico dress in the whole building, not among hundreds of us. Why, what is that? Aunt Margaret, what are you hiding in your lap?"

She snatched the waist and shook it out, and her face was beaming. "Have you taken to waists all fancy and buttoned in the back? I bet you this is mine!"

"I bet you so, too," said Margaret Sinton. "You undress right away and try it on, and if it fits it will be done for morning. There are some low shoes too!"

Elnora began to dance. "Oh, you dear people!" she cried. "I can pay for them tomorrow night! Isn't it too splendid! I was just thinking on the way home that I certainly would be compelled to have cooler shoes until later, and I was wondering what I'd do when the fall rains begin."

"I meant to get you some heavy dress skirts and a coat then," said Mrs. Comstock.

"I know you said so!" cried Elnora. "But you needn't now. I can get every single stitch I need myself. I'll be helping with the tax next, mother."

Elnora waved the waist and started for the bedroom. When she opened the door she gave a little cry.

"What have you people been doing?" she demanded. "I never saw so many interesting bundles in all my life. I'm skinned to death for fear I can't pay for all of them and will have to give up something."

"Wouldn't you take them if you could not pay for them, Elnora?" asked her mother instantly.

"Why, not unless you did," answered Elnora. "People have no right to wear things they can't afford, have they?"

"But from such old friends as Margaret and Wesley!" Mrs. Comstock's voice was oily with triumph.

"From them least of all," cried Elnora stoutly. "From a stranger sooner than from them, to whom I owe so much more than I ever can pay now."

"Well, you don't have to," said Mrs. Comstock. "Maggie just selected these things because she is more in touch with the world and has got such good taste. You can pay as long as your money holds out, and if there's more necessary maybe I can sell the butcher a calf, or if there's things too costly for us, of course, they can take them back. Anything that ain't used can be returned. They were only brought here on trial."

The girl began opening the packages. The hat came first.

"Mother!" cried Elnora. "Mother, of course, you have seen this, but you haven't seen it on me. I must try it on!"

"Don't you dare put that on your head until your hair is washed and properly combed," said Margaret. "While it dries you can eat your supper, and this dress will be finished. Then you can put on your new ribbon and your hat. That little round bundle on the top of the basket is your stockings."

Margaret sat down and began sewing swiftly and a little later opened the machine and ran several long seams.

Elnora was back in a few minutes, holding up her skirts and stepping daintily in the beautiful new shoes.

Wesley and Margaret scarcely breathed for a long time. Then Wesley went to do the feeding. Elnora set the table. When the water was hot Margaret pinned a big towel around Elnora's shoulders and washed and dried the lovely hair according to the instructions she had been given the previous night. As the hair began to dry it billowed out in a sparkling sheen that caught the light and gleamed and flashed.

"Now, the idea is to let it stand naturally, just as the curl will make it. Don't you do any of that nasty, untidy snarling, Elnora," cautioned Margaret. "Wash it this way every two weeks while you are in school, shake it out and dry it. Then part it in the middle and turn a front quarter on each side from your face. You tie the back at your neck with a string—so, and the ribbon goes in a big, loose bow. I'll show you." One after another Margaret Sinton tied the ribbons, creasing each of them so they could not be returned, as she explained that she was trying to see which was most becoming. Then she produced the raincoat, which carried Elnora into transports.

To Wesley and to Margaret the bright young face of Elnora, with its pink tints, its heavy dark brows, its bright blue gray eyes and its frame of curling reddish brown hair was the sweetest sight on earth, and at that instant Elnora was radiant.

She set the hat on her head. It was just a wide tan straw with three exquisite peacock quills at one side. Margaret Sinton cried out. Wesley slapped his knee and sighed like a blast and Mrs. Comstock stood speechless for a second.

"I wish you had asked the price before you put that on," she said impatiently. "We never can afford it."

"It's not so much as you think," said Margaret. "Don't you see what I did? I had them take off the quills and I put on some of those Phoebe Simms gave me from her peacocks. The hat will only cost you a dollar and a half."

She avoided Wesley's eyes and looked straight at Mrs. Comstock. Elnora removed the hat to examine it.

"Why, they are those reddish tan quills of yours!" she cried. "Mother, look how beautifully they are set on! I think they are fine. I'd much rather have them than those from the store."

"So would I," said Mrs. Comstock. "If Margaret wants to spare them, that will make you a beautiful hat, dirt cheap, too! You must go past Mrs. Simms and show her. She would be pleased to see them."

Elnora sank into a chair because she couldn't stand any longer and contemplated her toe. "Landy, ain't I a queen?" she murmured. "What else have I got?"

"Just a belt, some handkerchiefs and a pair of top shoes for rainy days and colder weather," said Margaret, handing over parcels.

"About those high shoes, that was my idea," said Wesley. "Soon as it rains low shoes won't do, and by taking two pairs at once I could get them some cheaper. The low ones are two and the high ones two-fifty, together three seventy-five. Ain't that cheap?"

"That's a real bargain," said Mrs. Comstock. "If they are good shoes, and they look it."

"This," said Wesley, producing the last package, "is your Christmas present from your Aunt Maggie. I got mine, too, but it's at the house. I'll bring it up in the morning."

He handed Margaret the umbrella, and she passed it over to Elnora, who opened it and sat laughing under its shelter. Then she kissed both of them. She got a pencil and a slip of paper and set down the prices they gave her of everything they had brought except the umbrella, added the sum and said laughingly: "Will you please wait till tomorrow for the money? I will have it then, sure."

"Elnora," said Wesley Sinton, "wouldn't you?"

"Elnora, hustle here a minute!" called Mrs. Comstock from the kitchen. "I need you!"

"One second, mother," answered Elnora, throwing off the coat and hat and closing the umbrella as she ran. There were several errands to do in a hurry, and then supper. Elnora chattered incessantly. Wesley and Margaret talked all they could, while Mrs. Comstock said a word now and then, which was all she ever did. But Wesley Sinton was watching her, and time and again he saw a peculiar little twist around her mouth. He knew that for the first time in sixteen years, she really was laughing over something. She had all she could do to

"HAIR THAT GIVES FATHER TIME THE LAUGH"

We are just about as old as we LOOK.

People judge us, by the way we LOOK. The man or woman with grey hair is beginning to get in the "Old Timer's Class." This Twentieth Century does NOT want GREY hairs—it wants the energy of Youth. The big things are being done by the YOUNGER generation.

There's a sort of "Has Been" look about those "Grey Hairs." There is always one to criticize and smile scornfully.

Father Time is a stern disciplinarian. Get the best of him. Give him the laugh. Do not be a "Has Been." It's unnecessary. Use HAY'S HAIR HEALTH.

preserve her usually sober face. Wesley knew what she was thinking.

After supper the dress was finished, the plans for the next one discussed and then the Sintons went home. Elnora gathered her treasures.

As she started for the stairs she stopped. "May I kiss you good night, mother?" she asked lightly.

"Never mind any slobbering," said Mrs. Comstock. "I should think you'd lived with me long enough to know that I don't care for it."

"Well, I'd love to show you in some way how happy I am and how I thank you."

"I wonder what for?" said Mrs. Comstock. "Mag Sinton picked that stuff and brought it here, and you pay for it."

"Yes, but you seemed willing for me to have it, and you said you would help me if I couldn't pay all," insisted Elnora.

"Maybe I did," said Mrs. Comstock. "Maybe I did. I meant to get you some heavy dress skirts about Thanksgiving, and I still can get them. Go to bed and for mercy's sake don't begin mooning before a mirror and make a dunce of yourself."

BACKACHE
NOT A DISEASE

But a Symptom, a Danger Signal Which Every Woman Should Heed.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Read about Mrs. Woodall's experience.

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had sore-ness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—MRS. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

SUFFERED FOR SEVEN
DAYS IN WINTRY SEAThrilling Tale of Disaster Off
Cape Horn.

London, Sept. 4.—There has just reached Wales a thrilling story of the sufferings of the crew of the sailing vessel Criccieth Castle, which was sunk off Cape Horn in July. The vessel's rudder post gave way and damaged the ship to such an extent that she had to be abandoned. Captain Thomas and his wife and their four-year-old son, the second officer and thirteen of the crew took to the lifeboat. The first and third officers and five of the crew took to a small boat. The latter disappeared during the night the ship was abandoned and was never seen again.

That same night Captain Thomas was washed out of the lifeboat, but his wife gripped him by his clothes and held on until two of the crew came to her assistance and dragged him back. Three of the crew died during the night and three others before they reached land, seven days later. Thirteen altogether perished.

The sufferings of the survivors in the winter seas off the horn were terrible. Finally they sighted Cape Pembroke lighthouse on July 22 and were able to get near enough to snatch ropes thrown by the lighthouse keeper and his assistants.

The clothes had to be cut off the six dead men. The second officer soon died and some of the others are in a critical condition. Captain and Mrs. Thomas and their child are recovering.

WESTERN INVASION

Colonel Roosevelt Continues His Trip Into Iowa.

St. Louis, Sept. 4.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt left here for Iowa on his invasion of the west. His trip through Indiana, southern Illinois and to St. Louis was important, less because of the thousands who turned out to greet him and the fact that he turned his batteries on Governor Woodrow Wilson, than because of the opportunity he had to confer with state leaders and ascertain a first hand the real situation in the states he traversed. At Indianapolis he saw former Senator Beveridge, Progressive candidate for governor.

Will Employ About 400.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 4.—The Evansville cotton mills, recently purchased at receiver's sale, will be opened soon and about 400 operatives employed.

NO MATERIAL CHANGE IN ELECTION RESULT

Full Returns From the Ballot
In Vermont.

Burlington, Vt., Sept. 5.—The result of Tuesday's election in Vermont is not changed nor the standing of the three leading candidates for governor materially altered by the returns. With the legislature Republican by a large majority on a joint ballot, the election of Allen M. Fletcher, Republican, and the rest of his ticket is a foregone conclusion. With the settlement of protracted struggles to elect representatives and the counting of the state vote in several of the smaller towns, the five candidates for governor stand as follows in round numbers: Fletcher, Republican, 26,000; Howe, Democrat, 20,100; Metzger, Progressive, 15,700; Smith, Prohibition, 1,600, and Suitor, Socialist, 1,100.

The chief feature in view of the thorough manner in which the state was covered by rallies in practically every town is the fact that the total vote was not abnormal. It totals less than 65,000.

The Progressives are elated at the showing made by their ticket, and the Democrats assert that it is proved the third party did not detract from their strength. It is the regular Republican vote that has suffered, and the Democrats point with pride to the ineffectual attempt made to get their voters by the Bull Moose orators. The Democrats increased their vote of two years ago by about 3,000 and by nearly 5,000 over that cast for their nominee in the presidential year four years ago.

Ohio Progressives Meet.
Columbus, O., Sept. 5.—Fifteen hundred delegates listening reverently to the reading of the Scriptures, reciting in unison the Lord's Prayer, and then lifting their voices in the patriotic hymn "My Country 'Tis of Thee," was the impressive picture presented at the first session of the first Ohio state convention of the Progressive party. Arthur L. Garford of Elyria will in all probability be nominated for governor by acclamation.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

William Christy is seriously ill of pneumonia fever at his home on Brown street.

A trained bear and two monkeys in charge of two strangers afforded amusement upon the street today. Several exhibitions were given over the city and after each act a man started out among the crowd with his hat for contributions.

Although reports of several burglars during the past few days have been circulated, no reports have been received by the police department. It was reported last night that a burglar had entered a home and was chased away at the point of a gun, but the police received no information of such work.

John VanOsdol, conductor on the I. & L. freight between Seymour and Louisville met with a painful accident last night while unloading some pieces of sheet iron. One of the pieces slipped in his hand cutting a gash from the center of the hand to the wrist. He was brought to Seymour where he received medical attention, although the hand is badly swollen today and quite painful, the injury is not considered serious.

NEW ORDERS ARE ISSUED TO B. & O. S-W. TRAINMEN

Officials Sent Out Additional Instructions to Employees Regarding Their Work.

The following bulletins have been issued recently by the B. & O. Southwestern:

Conductors and Engineers:
When a freight train stalls on a grade from any cause, instead of attempting to pull the train by slackening it by use of air brakes, you will at once arrange to double the train. Conductors and Engineers:

Effective at once. Engine backing up must not exceed a speed limit of twenty miles per hour on the main line and fifteen miles per hour on branches.

Conductors and Engineers:
East bound passenger trains will not exceed a speed limit of forty miles per hour and east bound freight trains will not exceed a speed limit of twenty-five miles per hour between Allendale and Remington.

Conductors No. 12:
When Hooking Valley electric car No. 7 has passengers for the east for train No. 12, the train will be held five minutes if necessary for connection.

Operators at Hamden will notify the conductors when they have passengers.

To Passenger Conductors and Trainmen:

It has been noted that passenger conductors and trainmen are in the habit in warm weather, of placing a handkerchief around their necks for protection of their collars.

This practice must be discontinued at once.

Train and Yardmen:

A derail has been placed in the blacksmith shop track and located just east of the iron house at Chilli-cothe. This switch is connected with an electrical appliance for sounding gongs at each passageway across the track. It is necessary that the derail be kept on the rail, except when the train is actually in use. No cars must be left standing over this derail and it must not be left off the rail after work has been finished.

A precaution against jumping on pilots has been issued by W. C. Loe-re, general manager of the B. & O. which reads as follows:

Instructions have been issued to remove the flange or step on engine pilots. This work will be done as fast as possible, as the engines come into the round houses. Step is being attached to the pilot beam to be used in place of the flange on the pilot. All employees are especially warned not to jump on flange on pilot of engine, as it may be an engine which has recently had the flange removed.

gation, in which it was discovered that many times, when a shipment was sent with charges prepaid collection also was made when the package reached its destination. It was also found that charges often were collected because the prepaid shipment had not been properly marked or way-billed.

Under the new system, when a consignment is received from the shipper the responsibility of the express company for the service begins; therefore, the record of the transaction must be correct and exactly as the shipper intends it.

The new "prepaid," "collect" and "C. O. D." labels will record the transaction beyond possibility of error.

On the correct way-billing of the shipment and the attachment to the package of the way-bill label will depend the prompt and sure destination and consignee.

The shipper will be given the benefit of the doubt raised by any error or omission of the express company or its employees. Delivery will be made at once, and necessary corrections of charges or collections will follow.

Yellow labels, way bills and delivery sheets will be used on prepaid shipments, while white ones will designate collect shipments.

place he held with credit to himself and also proved himself to be a valuable man for his company.

There are probably few men in the interurban business today who were better liked by the employees of the road than was Mr. Ward. While he was ever watchful of the interests of his company, his instructions and orders were given in such a way that the employees under him were always ready and willing to do his bidding and to assist him in any way they could that the service of the road might be bettered. He was one of the most energetic traction men in Indiana and his fatal illness was brought on by over work and exhaustion. Since the time he was appointed superintendent he was at his office early and late every day in the week and kept in the closest touch with the movements of each car and also with the details of his heavy work. He was at his post of duty almost every morning when the first car left and upon many nights he would not return to his home until the last car had completed its run.

He is survived by a widow and two daughters. The funeral services will be held at Gilead, and the remains will be shipped to that place in a special car Saturday morning.
